"Soldiers must be kickers and Record Record Records or they would not be real soldiers," he smiled. "But don't kick to ma. Don't you boys know that the dear old soul takes it too seriously and worries herself sick over it? Write home cheery, happy letters."

Magistrate Fuchs, in the West Side court, held Harry Carr, a photographer, for trial in Special Sessions upon the cheery, happy letters—because after all it's a builty life and it's a charge of using the United States flag happy life.
